

Affiliate Societies & Institutions

Include:

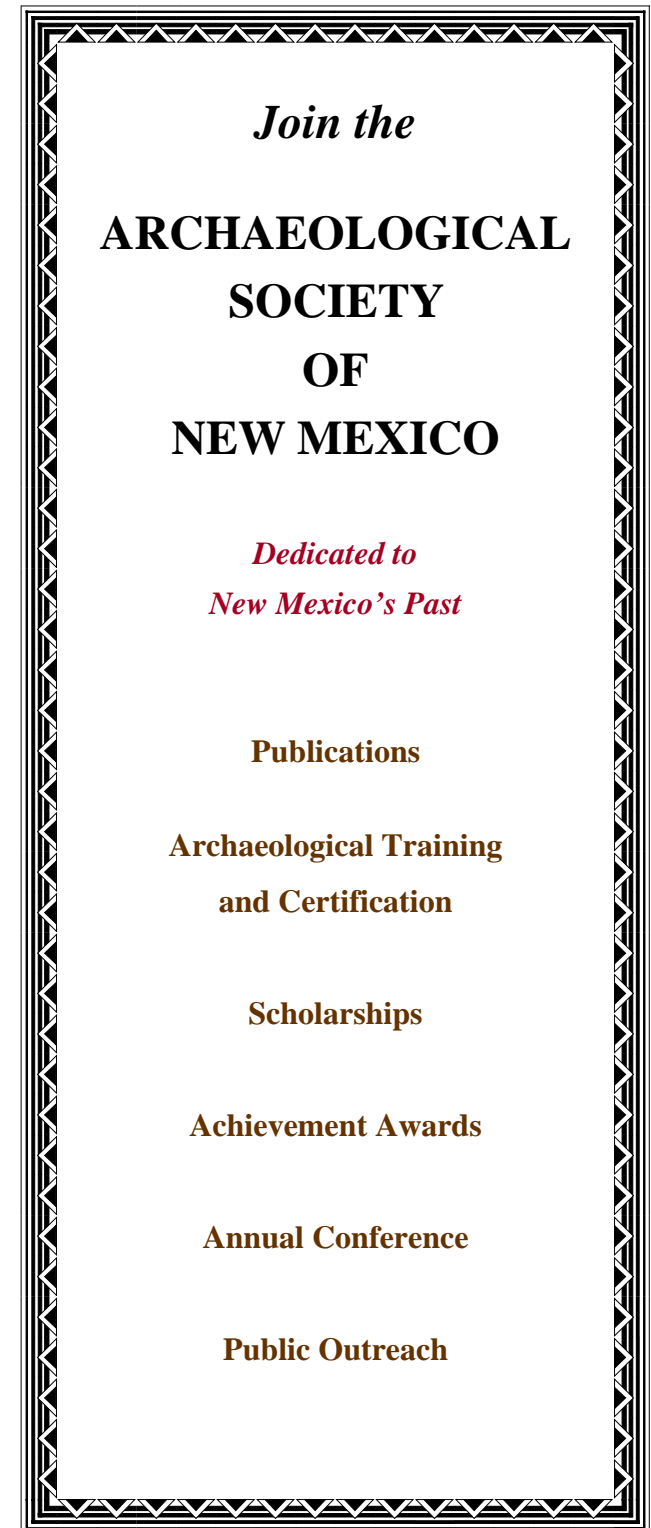

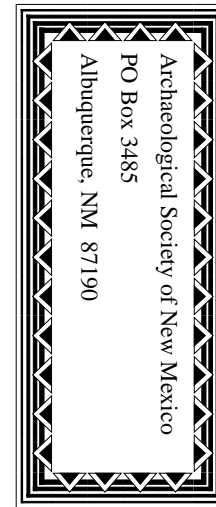

- Albuquerque Archaeological Society, Albuquerque
- Doña Ana Archaeological Society, Las Cruces
- El Paso Archaeological Society, El Paso, TX
- Grant County Archaeological Society, Silver City
- Lea County Archaeological Society, Andrews, TX
- Midland Archaeological Society, Midland, TX
- Plateau Sciences Society, Gallup
- San Juan Archaeological Society, Flora Vista
- Santa Fe Archaeological Society, Santa Fe
- Taos Archaeological Society, Taos
- Torrance County Archaeological Society, Estancia
- New Mexico State Archaeologist, Santa Fe

Did you know?

ASNM-trained individuals and groups perform site and rock art recording, field surveys, excavations, artifact and other analyses, and publish their archaeological work.

Members of ASNM have recorded thousands of examples of rock art throughout New Mexico.

ASNM is involved with New Mexico Preservation Month activities, including the annual poster, and participates in the annual New Mexico Archaeology Fair.

Membership Benefits:

Members of the society include avocational and professional archaeologists from across the country with interests in the Southwest. Membership benefits include:

- A copy of the annual ASNM collected papers publication, a $29.95 value (and the price for non-members).
- The quarterly ASNM Newsletter, La Jornada, with news from throughout the state, announcements of upcoming regional archaeological events, ASNM Board reports, and more.
- An opportunity to enroll in the ASNM-sponsored rock art recording projects.
- Participation in the ASNM archaeological certification system, which provides field and classroom training (an additional benefit for site stewards participating in the SiteWatch program).
- Scholarship funding for deserving students studying archaeology and related fields .
- Opportunities to participate in the state Archaeological Fair promoting archaeology and historic preservation.
- The ASNM annual meeting, hosted by one of the Affiliate Societies, includes papers, a banquet, achievement awards, member and board meeting, field trips and, especially, the opportunity to meet colleagues from the Southwest.

Membership Form

Name(s): _____

Address: _____

Newsletter email address (Req*):

*If you do not wish to receive your newsletter via email, please pay the additional printing and postage fee for a printed snail mail copy.

New Membership: _____ Renewal: _____

Membership Level:

Individual, Institution, or Family ($25): $ _____

Contributor ($35 and up) $ _____

Affiliated Society ($25) $ _____

Hardcopy Newsletter ($5) $ _____

Extra Scholarship Fund Contribution $ _____

Total Enclosed $ _____

Send payment to:

The Archaeological Society of New Mexico

PO Box 3485

Albuquerque, NM 87190-3485

